COMMUNICATION_CHALLENGE

PEN PAL STATIONARY

THE REWIND ◀◀

For centuries, letters carried love, secrets, and revolutions -- handwritten, sealed, and entrusted to couriers. Then came electrical wires, radio towers, TCP/IP, and in 1992, a British engineer sent the first-ever SMS: “Merry Christmas.” Suddenly conversation was instant, disposable, borderline addictive. This week, we’ll slow it down, put ink to paper, and set off a chain of old-school writing.

COMMUNICATION_CHALLENGE

PEN PAL STATIONARY

THE REWIND ◀◀

For centuries, letters carried love, secrets, and revolutions -- handwritten, sealed, and entrusted to couriers. Then came electrical wires, radio towers, TCP/IP, and in 1992, a British engineer sent the first-ever SMS: “Merry Christmas.” Suddenly conversation was instant, disposable, borderline addictive. This week, we’ll slow it down, put ink to paper, and set off a chain of old-school writing.

subject: The object I'm holding is not a phone

Write about a meaningful object in your life: something you've held onto for a long time, or something you carry around in your pocket. Why has it stuck with you? What memories does it hold?

subject: The object I'm holding is not a phone

Write about a meaningful object in your life: something you've held onto for a long time, or something you carry around in your pocket. Why has it stuck with you? What memories does it hold?